Sam Helps with the Dishwashing

Dropped in at the Abernathy's just the other evening—and there was Sam, out in the kitchen with an apron on, helping his missus wash the supper dishes. (And then I learned later he'd helped cook the supper, too.)

Of course, Sam could have settled into his favorite chair, enjoyed his evening glass of beer, and left all the messy kitchenwork to Dixie. But he kind of likes her company — and she in turn certainly appreciates his help.

In fact, sharing the housework and the mealtime chores is set a bond between them . . . like the ing that friendly glass of beer gether, when the work is done. is one of those little all-importa things in marriage.

From where I sit, the time th a man and wife can spend wi each other in this busy world tak is all too precious. And the nic things they can do together, is better.

Up in the Hair

Your hair-do's go up with the temperature. Braids, worn coronet fashion around the head, are the big fashion—and very practical for swimming, too. Here are some hair-minded hints.

Beauty and the Bleach—Much as we disapprove, we feel obliged to report that some teen - agers are bleaching their bangs, just as you bleached streaks through your hair last year. And, did you know, that boys in Tulsa, Okla., call their bleached streaks "Skunk Locks"?

Shaggy Dog Stuff—Those pictures of Dorothy McGuire in her shaggy, straight hair-do must have made a big impression on you. But, didn't you stop to wonder how it would look on you before you took the fatal step. Wonder before you blunder, we always say.

Hair Do-Dads—You're wearing a silver barrette on each side, connected with a silver necklace chain that crosses your head like a band. You're stocking up on jeweled side combs from the dime store and wearing one on each side. You're hanging dog tags from your bobby pins.

Barrette Business—We hear that lots of you have made your own stick barrettes by using a math protractor as the buckle and a pencil as the "stick." Well, if you can't carry figures in your head, carry them on it.

TRIXIE TEEN SAYS:

You just won't learn your lesson, even though you had to get it the hard way. Last summer you broke all other dates to go "steady" with HIM. You were so sure he liked you as much as you liked him. Then, came school opening and you just didn't rate with him any more because you weren't B.G.O.C. (Big Girl on Campus). Well, he's taking you for a sleighride this summer again, isn't he? Maybe it was his fault when he broke your heart the first time, but it will be YOUR fault if he does it again!

Cloud Atom Blast to Create Heavy Rain

Scientists Consider Chance of Causing Downpour.

WASHINGTON. — Scientists are weighing the possibility of exploding an atomic bomb in the midst of storm clouds to create a literal rain of death.

The advantage of this technique, experts studying the plan report, is that a city far inland could be drenched with radioactivity without the necessity of exploding a bomb under water, as was done in the Bikini experiments.

Until now, coastal cities or those near large rivers or lakes were the most probable targets for such type atomic bombing.

There is, however, a definite possibility that the very power and heat of the bomb might foil the plan.

Some scientists contend that a bomb exploded in a cloud bank might first blast the cloud away and then dissipate its moisture high into the air and away from the target.

But proponents of the idea say it would be necessary only to watch the drift of weather toward a target and select a day when rain clouds several thousand feet thick were floating overhead. Radar would pick up the target for the bombing plane, and the bomb would be exploded in the thick of the storm. Rain falling from the clouds would be poisoned with the deadly by-product of the bomb's explosion.

The use of radioactivity in this manner would be aside from previously reported plans for spraying a target area with radioactive material released from an airplane.
